Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my sincere interest in the Data Science position at The George Institute for Global Health. As someone deeply passionate about using data for social good, I am inspired by your mission to improve the health of millions worldwide and to bring health equity to those who need it most. I would be honored to contribute to your impactful research and digital health initiatives through data science.

Recently, I completed an internship where I worked on real-world projects in machine learning and deep learning. I developed predictive models, worked with neural networks, and utilized tools such as TensorFlow, Keras, and Scikit-learn. This experience sharpened my ability to use data-driven approaches to solve complex problems—skills that I believe align well with your focus on evidence-based health solutions.

Beyond my internship, I have also undertaken personal projects involving data analysis, visualization, and predictive modeling using Python, SQL, Pandas, and Tableau. For instance, one project involved analyzing user behavior on an e-commerce platform to recommend interventions for improved engagement. These projects not only honed my technical skills but also taught me how to tell meaningful stories with data—an essential trait for translating research into scalable, real-world impact.

What draws me most to The George Institute is your commitment to high-quality research, digital health innovation, and global collaboration, especially with communities facing systemic barriers. I am enthusiastic about the opportunity to contribute to this transformative work, learn from leading experts, and help generate insights that can shape policies and promote health equity globally.

Thank you for considering my application. I would welcome the opportunity to further discuss how my background in data science and passion for public health can support your mission. I am excited about the possibility of joining your team and contributing to your vision of a healthier, more just world.

Warm regards,
Nishant Goel
